Keeping Current

We hope that you all have had a really wonderful Holiday Season and New Year. We've gotten through January and have made it into February. We are approaching Valentine's Day and in honor of that day we wish you all Divine Love to express and experience in your life in God's Most Perfect Way over time. Also, in honor of Valentine's Day, we have printed an article entitled "The Soul Mate Concept."

If God is all there is, then every single one of us is God in a body. Every single one of us is a soul. If God is eternal, then we are all eternal. With that logic, it would seem to me that we are all eternal soul mates with each other. Since we are all going to be experiencing with each other, in various forms and for various reasons, over a very, very, very long time, it would seem to me that we should take the time to learn how to treat each other with the utmost respect and Divine Love.

But, sometimes kindness is cruelty and cruelty is kindness. Sometimes drawing boundaries is the only way that a selfish person will learn. Sometimes you need to stand up because pleasing and placating only invites more exploitation. Some people on the planet are misguided and controlled by their old negative habits, no matter how well intentioned.

Divine Love calls for helping a person learn the lessons that he needs to learn in order to be the best person he can be, as designated by the Creator. To express Divine Love, you must always treat yourself and all others as directed by the Creator, and in His Most Perfect Way over time. And, sometimes kindness is cruelty and cruelty is kindness. Let us all join in God taking charge of all those in power on this planet so as to guide them into doing the right thing in His Most Perfect Way over time. Let us ask for this relative to all the social and military decisions to be made at this time and over time, by all mankind, incarnate and discarnate. Amen.

The Soul Mate Concept

I know that the popular definition, the commercial definition, the definition that most people want to believe for the concept of "soul mate" is "someone special who was literally born to be your romantic-sexual partner for life." In fact, those with the acceptance of eternal life often see a soul mate as someone they are supposed to connect with romantically on Earth, then to find a way to live together as an exclusive romantic couple forever, for all time, throughout the Universe.

The concept of soul mate has most often been interpreted as the idea that there is one (and only one) person who completes you, who makes you whole, who is responsible for your eternal bliss in life, whose love lifts your spirits and keeps you fulfilled in life, automatically and just because he or she is with you. For those familiar with The Keys To Reality Teachings, such a definition looks suspiciously like the definition of a lesser god, more so than like the definition of an equal romantic partner in life. An equal romantic partner in life is someone with whom you are destined to learn how to share, care, teach, touch and communicate in God's Most Perfect Way as you live together throughout that particular lifetime.

The Keys To Reality Teachings actually defines the concept of soul mate as any person who is born

God I Am The Perfect Soul Mate

God I Am the Perfect Divine Soul Mate. God I Am Able to relate to all life as directed by the Creator and in His Most Perfect Way over time. God I Am Divine Love, Divine Affection and Divine Caring. God I Am Divine Perfect Relating with all life. I provide each and everyone of my soul mate partners in life with the perfect responses to their projections because I cause myself to always and only act as I am specifically directed to act in all relationships, and no matter what is or is not happening in my life. God I Am Complete Divine Impersonality and Fearlessness. God I Am Always Precisely Accountable and Totally Receptive to the Impress of the Creator at all times and in all situations and circumstances. God I Am a Divine Agent of the Creator in all of my relationships because I always do and say what is designated for me to do and say per the Will of the Creator and in His Most Perfect Way over time. God I Am Divine Clarity and Communication. God I Am Divine Sharing, Caring and Care-Giving, always and only as directed by the Creator, and in His Most Perfect Way and Time over time.

God I Am the Perfect Divine Lover of All Life because I am only romantically interested in those individuals who are designated to be a romantic partner with me in this life, at this time, per the Will and Plan of Our Infinite Creator Source over time. I show the Divine Love that I have for all life because I demonstrate complete surrender to the Will and Direction of the Creator in all areas of my life, and especially relative to all and every type of relationship that I have, including and especially romantic relationships in God's Most Perfect Way over time. I Accept that the real reason for having romantic relationships is to provide God's Loving Intervention out unto those others with whom I am now designated to experience for our ultimate greater good over time. God I Am Divine Intimacy and Romance. God I Am Divine Connection, Tenderness and Trust. God I Am Divine Responsible Dedication and Loyalty in all of my personal and romantic relationships in the Most Perfect Way of Our Infinite Creator Source at all times. God I Am Divine Love, Service and Unity within the focus of all relationships, including and especially romantic ones. God I Am the Perfect Soul Mate for all life. So be it. Thank you God.

with a karmic magnet to be attracted and/or attractive to you in a "more than just physical" way. A soul mate is a person who literally has impacted your eternal soul's experience in the past; and therefore is designated by the Creator to connect with you again in this lifetime, as part of Divine Plan, for the mastery, for the karmic rebalancing, and even sometimes for further teaching and contributing to each other's lives over time.

Of course, one of the most important soul mates that you can experience with in life would be that equal romantic partner mentioned above. But, making an equal romantic partner into a lesser god influence is one of the reasons why most romantic relationships on the planet today turn into competitive, defensive, control trips between two people looking to get attention and validation from each other; rather than remaining caring, learning experiences between two people who are looking to give Divine Love and Affection to each other.

Identifying Your Soul Mates

The above Keys definition for soul mates would explain why even enemies have to be included in your list of soul mates for this lifetime. After all, people who come to a place of strong hostility for you (or vice-versa) in this lifetime, most likely have come to that place (or vice-versa) before in past lifetimes; and it is very, very important to create personal and karmic freedom and forgiveness from the past relative to all of your negative, lesser god relationships experienced in all lifetimes, for the good of all the souls involved, for all time.

Everyone in your immediate family, your parents, brothers, sisters, uncles, aunts, cousins etc., are all people who are soul mates for you because it would have been practically impossible for you to avoid meeting them in this life given your birth circumstances. Of course, some family members have been, are and/or will be more intimately and intensely connected to you than others, whether over many lifetimes and/or in this one, personally and karmically.

In summary, some of your soul mates are designated for romance; others are to be your teachers, students, friends, co-workers, colleagues, competitors, etc. and so forth. Anyone who seems to react unusually intensely to you (or you to them) upon first meeting, whether getting too angry too quickly, too repulsed too quickly, too attracted too quickly, too possessive too quickly, etc., undoubtedly is a soul mate who shares a karmic history and a karmic magnet with you. Every spiritual student should closely investigate all such relationships with the Creator through his own Receivership as the way to manifest his full conscious mastery and complete freedom and forgiveness from the past over time.

Divine Plan Romantic Partners

Even though the concept of soul mate should not relate solely to the idea of finding someone who is your perfect romantic partner for all time, practically each and every individual on the planet is designated to experience a romantic-sexual relationship with one or more other people, so chosen for each by the Creator for His Higher Reasons and Purposes, as part of Divine Plan, over his lifetime. Although, in practically all cases, Divine Plan does designate that a particular individual experiences with only one romantic partner at a time.

Celibacy is only designated by Divine Plan for a very small percentage of those incarnating on the planet at any given time. That is actually why so many priests and nuns have had a hard time remaining celibate, even when living in nunneries and/or monasteries, at various times throughout history. Most of those who have had trouble keeping vows of celibacy were physically programmed to be attracted to, and attractive to, certain other individuals on the planet for romance as part of each's own individual Divine Plan. Going against the Divine Plan programmings of his physical body can cause a person to experience a lot of inner adamant warfare within both his mind and body; and it can also cause him to develop a predisposition towards illicit sex, which is easier to hide than a forbidden romantic relationship would be for most people over time.

"Thou Shall Not Commit Adultery" is a commandment that has been interpreted throughout History as a Spiritual Law that declares that fidelity in marriage is very important to the Creator (it is in practically all cases). Unfortunately, most people on the planet do not consciously and specifically ask God who they are to marry, as those priests and nuns mentioned above don't actually consciously and specifically ask God whether it is Divine Plan for each to become celibate. Just as nuns and priests who do not have a Divine Plan programming for celibacy find it hard to resist their tendencies to be physically attracted to certain other people, so do people who have a Divine Plan programming connection to someone other than the person they have married also find it hard to resist that attraction.

The real meaning of "Thou Shall Not Commit Adultery" should be that a person should ask the Creator before having sex with anyone, at any time, let alone ask the Creator before making the huge karmic commitment inherent in marriage. Marriage can be Divine when it is the agreement to live together in an exclusive romantic partnership made by two individuals who are designated to do so by the Creator for His Higher Purposes.

An equal romantic partner is an important soul mate to find, but, what makes it God's Will for two individuals to be romantic soul mates in this lifetime is not the specifics of their looks, names, races, nationalities, religions or even social security numbers. It is the nature of their personalities and their karmic histories that are the most important factors that determine God's Divine Plan for the two of them in general and together. All of the above is why it is accurate to say that there is more than one person who would fit the needed profile and therefore could become another person's perfect equal romantic partner in this life according to Divine Plan.

Relationship Magnets

If it is within the Creator's Will and Plan for certain people to meet and experience a romantic relationship together in this life, then it stands to reason that the Creator would prepare each to be more receptive to connecting with the particular designated other person than each would be to connecting with most other people, all other things in a particular circumstance being the same. Since like attracts like, the way that the Creator seeks to insure that the "right" people meet and become affected by the "right" people is through literally programming each with a karmic relationship magnet for the other, so carried into this life at birth in each's sub-conscious mind.

Other than pure physical attraction, the energy that is most immediately attractive between people is the energy that is the most similar and familiar to and for each. The most similar and familiar energy (influence) for two particular people to feel around one another is the energy (influence) that has been shared by them in the past. That is why a person is more likely to choose to get closer to someone who is karmically connected to him from past lifetimes, than to someone who is not, again, all other things being the same.

The shared energy so programmed into two individuals who are designated to interact with each other in this life would likely include the similar preferences, aptitudes, interests and goals that contributed to the creation of the past life relationships that they previously shared. Two specific individuals who are designated to be attracted to each other might each be born carrying the memories of their past preoccupations with sex, with earning large amounts of money, with saving the world, with playing tennis, with music, animals, dance, art, sports; with particular cult leaders and/or with evolving spiritually and in God's Most Perfect Way over time.

And, of course, most significantly, such shared energy would include the specific memories of the experiences that the two of them went through together in those past relationships, the good and the bad, which would be literally programmed into each's sub-conscious mind at birth according to Divine Plan. That is why so many people feel as if they already know certain other people when first they meet this time around.

All of the above is how God gets people to notice each other when it is important karmically for each to do so. That shared energy, combined with God's Impress to notice the other person at a given time, are the pushes and pulls that the Creator uses to try to be the Divine Matchmaker that He often desires to be for particular couples at a given time and over time. Whether two individuals allow themselves to be moved towards the right romantic relationship at a particular time is problematic. People who are flexible, intuitive Spiritual Students are much more receptive to the Creator's Matchmaking than those who are rigid, intellectual and/or sexual control freaks, all other things being the same.

Two Ships Passing In The Night

Since most people on the planet do not ask the Creator, consciously and specifically, before deciding to pursue a particular romantic relationship, it is quite possible that most people on the planet today are actually committing Spiritual Adultery, whether they are legally married or not. People today often allow various lesser god influences, such as pure physical attraction, financial security, parental preferences, social pressures, societal limitations and/or religious inflexibilities, etc. and so forth, to make their romantic choices for them.

If there is only one person on the planet at a given time who could be your only perfect Divine Soul Mate, if there is only one person who could be your only perfect equal romantic partner in this life, then many people on the planet today are very vulnerable to being out of romantic luck. After all, what could you do if your perfect soul mate couldn't wait to get married and married someone else before meeting you? And, what if you were too afraid of romantic commitment at the time you meet that only possible soul mate for this lifetime, and therefore just sabotaged everything with your infidelity and/or with your immobilization?

What if you let other lesser god influences such as the abovementioned issues of 'pure physical attraction, financial security, parental preferences, social pressures, societal limitations and/or religious inflexibility' to cause you to pass on Mr. or Mrs. Right because you didn't double check with God through Receivership at the time? The original soul mate concept was never meant to create a focus on one and only one particular person for spiritual fulfillment, let alone for romantic self-indulgence and validation. If you get to enjoy an intimate, romantic relationship with someone special, and grow spiritually at the same time, then you are truly living a Divine Life, as long as your priorities, attitudes and commitments continue to evolve as directed by the Creator over time.

More On Why God Matches People

Unless particular past life personal and/or romantic relationships between romantic soul mates were expressed and experienced by each as directed by the Creator (highly unlikely), those relationships created certain lesser god ties and influences which must be specifically faced and mastered in this life (which would mean to be handled by each as directed by the Creator over time). Personal self will control is trespass and trespass always creates karmic ties and entries between even well-meaning people. Karmic ties and entries always need to be re-experienced for the mastery and for the karmic rebalancing over time and over lifetimes.

If there were intense control trips, battles of the sexes, competitions, grievances, grudges, etc., experienced in the past by two particular people with each other (which often occurs in very passionate relationships as well as in sleepy, long term convenience relationships), those individuals really need a second chance to get it right, and to free themselves from the negative karma accumulated in those past relationships over time. In such a case, Divine Plan would be for the two to be attracted and to experience together in order to create freedom and forgiveness from the past; and to create each individual's own mastery over all such lesser god relationship habits whether they stay together or not.

That is why it is sometimes within the Will and Plan of the Creator for a person to pursue a specific romantic relationship with a particular person that doesn't seem to stand a chance of long term commitment. To look at all of this from another perspective, when a person crosses over very much karmically tied to another person because of treating that other person as a lesser god influence (through being addicted to that person, through having an aversion to that person, through mistreating that person, through making that person an authority figure, etc.), then the karmic tie lives on after death, and so must it be mastered by each individual (or by another incarnation of his soul lifestream) in the future, on the planet, in the physical, in a future life.

All of the above is why the Creator's Divine Plan for practically every person incarnating on the planet is to start out already karmically tied to a number of other people on the planet, for the mastery over the lesser god influences experienced by each with each (through his soul lifestream) in previous lifetimes. It is why every one of us is born to experience with a number of different soul mates, in various types of relationships, according to Divine Plan, almost always including at least one, or perhaps even a few (one at a time), romantic soul mates. We are all getting second chances at getting all kinds of relationships right, this time around. All of the above is also why many people experience having to kiss a number of frogs before his or her prince or princess arrives in a particular lifetime or even over lifetimes.

Second Chance Mastery Specifics

Sometimes a second chance for a relationship in the physical means that one person has to untie himself and get strong enough to no longer 'lesser god' need the other person in his life no matter what. At other times, a second chance means that one person needs to get strong enough, fearless enough, judgment-free enough and/or responsible enough to commit to a romantic relationship with a particular other person totally and completely, and without letting any mortal judgments, considerations or comparisons to get in the way.

In still other circumstances, a second chance means that one person who has been hurt in the past by the other, and who has resolved himself never to forgive that other person, must learn forgiveness and thereby open himself up to the possibility of loving and trusting again if it is the Will of the Creator for him to do so. Sometimes karmic mastery means staying together when there are lesser god parts of you that want to and need to split up. At others times, it requires breaking up when lesser god parts of you want to hold on because of fear (of being alone) need (for attention), greed (need for financial support) or sexual attraction (sexual self-indulgence).

Further Conclusions

There are no automatic rules to go by. Each relationship of lifetimes is different and must be dealt with always as directed by the Creator in the moment; thereby allowing for growth, change, evolvment and karmic balances to be established over time, as designated and directed by the Creator. Anyone who you are designated to meet for the mastery, whether that person is designated by God to be your romantic partner or not, is a soul mate, is someone you are supposed to connect with, be affected by and surrender as a lesser god influence over time.

And, everyone is designated to meet and interact with a number of soul mates, most of whom are not designated to be 'the love of your lifetimes' in this lifetime. All of this does not mean that no one meets 'the love of his lifetimes' while he is still in mortal consciousness and personal self will control. It is only that it is much harder to create a successful relationship with anyone, let alone with 'the love of your lifetimes,' when you are still controlled by so many lesser god influences in your life such as the need to control, figure and form worship, fear of commitment, fear of being controlled, fear of loss, irritability, oversensitivity, overreaction and just plain taking things personally.

In fact, most people who are still controlled by each's personal self will control and lesser god influences have trouble recognizing who is really good for them as far as a good and trusted friend, let alone as far as a romantic partner for all time. Most people in personal self will control, people who are so often controlled by many lesser god influences and personality problems (and by discarnate passenger personalities and their lesser god influences and personality problems), often find themselves doing more to sabotage their relationships than to make them work in the Most Perfect Way of Our Infinite Creator Source over time and for all time. And this is so whether the particular romantic relationship is with a designated romantic soul mate for this life or not.

The way to make sure that you find the true right romantic partner for you in this lifetime is to seek God's Guidance and Direction about the issue through your own Crystal Clear Receivership over time. It is then for you to allow the Creator to continue to guide you into becoming the perfect romantic partner for that individual that He chooses for you, by continuing to master all the lesser god influences within you in God's Most Perfect Way over time. Only God within you knows how to teach you to be the Perfect Divine Romantic Partner; and only God within you knows how best to help a prospective romantic partner learn how to love you in His Most Perfect Way over time as well.

All of this is not to say that a person can only have true relationship fulfillment with a Spiritual Master. But, lasting fulfillment may not be possible, let alone be guaranteed, in any relationship where the participants are in need for validation, lesser god worship, personal self will control and complete mortal consciousness.

To be the perfect soul mate for all life, whether it is to be a romantic partner or just a Divine Friend, a person simply has to only and always relate to all life as directed by the Creator, and in His Most Perfect Way over time. Let that be your way of life and you will be the Perfect Divine Lover of All Life, whether you are designated to be romantic and/or sexual with a particular individual in this lifetime, at a given time, or not.
