Keeping Current

This edition of The KeysNews is a special edition that is devoted to sharing some of the receiverships and insights that we have received about the terrorist attacks on New York City and Washington D.C. This month's Keeping Current is going to be an example of a Receivership paper received by Allan Osman and sent out to his students and clients right after the disasters.

We are sharing this with the expanded Keys Foundation mailing list for your information, and with the hope that it will inspire you to do the prayers suggested in the paper, as well as do the expanded Clearing and Mastery Prayer List shared on page 3 of this edition. Thank you.

Dearest Infinite Creator Source, please bring forth that which you desire to reveal re: the following questions, etc. Thank you for that which we are about to receive.

Q1. What can be revealed about the terrorist attacks on the World Trade Center and the Pentagon?

My Dear Ones, you cannot live your lives in fear. You must retain your self-image as God in a body no matter what happens. Allow yourselves to see this occurrence as a manifestation dissipation of a great amount of unforgiveness, revenge and vengeance energy that has been building up within all mankind in various areas of the planet; not only recently with various hotspots on the planet such as the Middle East and Northern Ireland, Yugoslavia and various other European and Asian locations; but that has been building up on the planet for longer periods of time, including from World War Two, and even from conflicts that started long before those times like The Crusades.

Even though there was no desire by the Creator to have this experience created, it was created by the growing accumulation of revenge energies on the

Terrorism: Questions & Answers

Q: What were the karmic reasons for so many people to have to die in these acts of terrorism at the World Trade Center and the Pentagon?

A: The first thing that I must say to you is that God did not deliberately kill the people who were victimized in these acts of terrorism. "Thou Shall Not Kill." The terrorist attacks on the World Trade Center and the Pentagon were not acts of God. They were not the acts of a Muslim God, of a Christian God or even of a "Jerry Falwell and Pat Robertson" God either. In fact, they were not "god-like" in any way, shape or form.

I can say this because I know that God doesn't need to kill His Children in order to teach them lessons. That is what "cause and effect" and "karmic return over lifetimes" is for. God has created the rules of the playing field on Earth by establishing the Planetary Laws of Creative Energy. He did this in order to create a level playing field through which to teach the lessons that His Children need to learn.

God requires precise accountability over lifetimes, but He doesn't pull the trigger, Himself. He allows for the possibility that some crazy person might pull the trigger, through the act of giving us all on the planet real free will. How many people on the planet actually consciously and specifically ask God for His Direction prior to speaking, let alone prior to acting in every single instance of his life? Do you really think that any one of those terrorists actually got a Receivership from God that told him to perform his murderous suicide mission?

Do you really think that God ever rewards any of His Children with the kind of royal treatment for murder (riches, luxuries, handmaidens servicing them in Paradise, etc.) that these suicide terrorists were apparently promised? All that those suicide terrorists were met with upon their deaths were a lot of angry discarnate airplane passengers and World Trade Center workers. I pray that they all make it to the Light of the Spirit World in God's Most Perfect Way and Time.

God allows people to make the free will choices that help them grow and evolve; and He also allows them to make the free will choices that cause them to die prematurely, if they insist. The Creator lays out the ground rules for life on this planet. He doesn't directly intervene in a particular situation unless He is asked to do so by the individual people and/or groups involved. Even then, He would only do so in a way that would be for the greater evolutionary good of all involved over lifetimes; and not just to give anyone in particular what he wants just because that individual asks Him to do so. The Creator is a Loving Parent and Spiritual Teacher first and foremost for all of His Children.

As the wonderful parent and teacher that He is, the Creator offers His Guidance, but, He doesn't demand control. He offers real free will. Our Creator gives all of His Children the choice of whether to listen to Him (through each's own intuition); or whether to make all decisions according to each's own individual personal self will control; and therefore according to all of the lesser god influences that literally determine each individual's choices over time.

Most people on the planet see making their own choices through personal self will control as the kind of freedom that they are unwilling to give up. They don't actually see themselves as being controlled by the lesser god influences that are within and around them. There are no accidents in life only in the sense that everything that happens has a cause. But, there are accidents in life in the sense that there are many things that happen on this planet that God did not want to occur to anyone, for any reason.

Even though God gave man the power to create disasters, and the power to prevent them, He did not and does not want anyone to suffer or die prematurely, no matter what they think, say or do. The Creator gave man real free will and He therefore allows cause and effect over lifetimes to determine the specifics of each individual's path to mastery and karmic balance.

planet in general; energy that has literally needed to be dissipated and requalified to prevent even worse disasters from manifesting. This disaster was certainly bad enough, but it has to serve as a focus for clearing and mastery, and you are to ask for this at this time for yourselves and for all mankind. So be it.

All of this doesn't mean that the people responsible for creating this experience should not be karmically responsible for their actions. There is grave negative karma incurred by those who chose to perpetrate this horror. It is just that you, as spiritual students, must focus on the larger karmic issues; and should continue to call in the Intervention of the Creator for all involved with all of this in any way, whether they were victims or victimizers. Ask for freedom and forgiveness for the past, for Perfect Healing, and for the Mercy Bands to assist all involved, and also ask that all life forgive self and others from any and every perspective, from the physical and from the discarnate realms. So be it.

As far as specific things that you can do, you are all to pray that all unforgiveness and all revenge be disempowered and removed from influence from all mankind and the allness of its beingness, to be returned requalified as the Light of God that Never Fails, in the Most Perfect Way and Time of Our Infinite Creator Source. Ask for Precise Accountability to the Will of the Creator for all those who have already acted within this focus, and for all those who are about to act within this focus as well over time. So be it.

It is important that this focus be used for your prayers to disempower and requalify unforgiveness and revenge, and all related lesser god influences, from the planet. Once again, this does not mean that there should be no precise accountability. Karmic balances will always ultimately be maintained. But without clearing of unforgiveness and revenge motivations, there will be no lasting peace within the hearts and minds of all mankind, or within and around the planet either.

Ask for freedom and forgiveness from the past for all involved here, and for all combatants on the planet in general, and for the allness of the beingnesses. Ask that all revenge, all exploitation, all unfairness on the planet, and especially all tendencies to create man's inhumanity to man/to life in any and all of its forms, be now mastered by all mankind; and ask that it now be disempowered, removed from influence over everyone, everywhere, then to be returned requalified as the Light of God that Never Fails, for all mankind and the allness of the beingness, in the Most Perfect Way and Time of Our Infinite Creator Source. So be it.

People choose, with each's own personal self will control, to perpetrate acts of violence. Other people leave themselves vulnerable to being victimized by acts of violence, also through the effects of their personal self will control choices over time. All incidents are created by the karmic energy carried and put out by some (the perpetrators), being acted upon by the nature of the karmic energy being carried and put out by others (the victims).

All of this doesn't mean that the people who die in disasters do so because they have all chosen to be bloodthirsty murderers in the past or in past lives. It only means that they have created their vulnerability to dying in such a disaster through the nature of the energy that they have created within themselves over each's lifetime (and in some cases created over lifetimes).

There are a number of ways that relatively well-meaning people cause themselves to become vulnerable to experiencing premature death in the physical. Most of those ways are not all that dramatic. In fact, many are not even obvious to most people.

Q: Can you outline how people on the planet go about making themselves vulnerable to being negatively affected by the negative acts of others?

A: In a number of previous KeysNews articles, we have discussed the suggestion that Jesus, the Christ Consciousness, made to all of His followers of, "ask so that you may receive, knowing that before you've asked, it is done." Ask (put it out there) so that you may receive (so that it can come back to you). If anything that you put out comes back to you (if not immediately, then over time or even over lifetimes), then everything that you put out comes back to you.

If everything that you put out comes back to you, then everything that you put out serves as a magnet to attract like energy from the Universe. And, since every time a particular person puts out a certain type of energy, his habit of putting out such energy is strengthened, then every time he does so, so is his magnet for getting back such energy also strengthened.

The specific way that hostility or any particular energy comes back to a person from the Universe is through this person drawing out hostility (or generosity) from others, and especially from people who have the tendency to be hostile (or generous) within them already. It also comes back to him in the form of his attracting more hostile (or generous) people into his life than there would have been otherwise, all other things being the same, over time.

Energy comes back to a person over lifetimes through that individual being born carrying karmic magnets for negative (or positive) energy within his sub-conscious mind. That is why even babies and young children may experience misfortune and/or health problems that could not possibly have been caused by what they have put out in their young lives this time around. It is also why bad things can happen to nice people, sometimes seemingly out of the blue.

Most people today carry and put out a combination of positive and negative energy at all times. And because of this, they carry the tendency to attract both positive and negative energy and actions, from all the people on the planet, and from the Universe in general, at all times.

To be more specific and direct, the negative energy that can kill you includes any and all of the negative personality habits that you may act upon (your tendencies to reject, hate and/or be mean to yourself and/or others); and any and all of the negative karmic magnets that you were born carrying in your sub-conscious mind; magnets that probably have already been acting upon you, to your impending detriment, for your entire life to this point in time.

I often explain this concept to my students by saying that some people carry an energy mix that puts them in the black area; other people are in the white area, but that most people are in the gray area. A person in the black area carries so much negative build up within his consciousness and body that he is literally an accident waiting to happen. Such an individual has to be very careful about what he thinks, says and does in his life at all times in order to actually keep himself on the planet.

A person in the white area is someone who is so positive, loving, God directed, etc., that he literally is safe wherever he goes. To achieve the white area status, a person would literally have to be either a Spiritual Master or a relatively advanced Spiritual Student who acts as the Creator directs him at all times, without fear and without complaint.

When you act as directed by the Creator at all times, you are one with God (you do as He would do in all situations), and you thereby make yourself as positive (and as safe) as you can be; and even if you still must face some negative experiences so created by the negative energy that you have put out previously, for the mastery and/or karmic rebalancing this time around.

Most people on the planet are in the gray area. Most people are somewhat vulnerable to the negative energy that might be directed their way out of the personal self will control actions of others at a given time. If you are in the gray area, you are making yourself much safer when you are praying and asking God to take charge of you, than when you are throwing a tantrum and/or giving in to fear and prejudice.

If a person in the gray area doesn't watch the road when he is driving, he could create and fall victim to a traffic accident by his oversight. There is a certain amount of negative karma attached to the act of oversight, especially when it helps create loss or suffering for another person (even if that other person is in the black or gray area himself).

A person in the black area who doesn't watch the road when he is driving would undoubtedly be killing himself by such oversight. Even a person in the white area can kill himself through oversight if he continues to perpetrate such oversight over time, because oversight, in and of itself, carries negative karma attached to it.

Someone in the white area can cross over to the gray area simply by stopping his spiritual application and positive thinking regimen over time. Someone in the white area can be pulled into the gray area relatively quickly if he combines stopping his spiritual application with not paying careful enough attention to the other aspects of his personal and material lives.

When groups of people come together, they almost always are in the gray area as a group, and are therefore almost always somewhat vulnerable to disaster at any and all given times, as a group. When there is oversight added to the mix, such as when people do not pay enough attention to airport security over time, there is a great potential for disaster, suffering and loss of life being created.

Individuals who are in the white area will survive such disasters, often miraculously. Those in the black area are those who seem to suffer the gravest consequences of a disaster, even when they seemingly should have escaped it partially or completely by their general physical circumstances. People in the gray area can either survive or perish in a disaster situation, depending upon how they act just before, during or just after the disaster strikes.

Divine Plan for a person in the gray area can actually change from moment to moment, as he makes decisions about how he is going to conduct his life over time. His potential future would be different as he becomes more positive and/or more negative throughout an important day; as he takes better or worse care of himself and others in a given situation; and as he decides to help other people or take advantage of them through a particular business deal.

In fact, a person in the gray area could actually move into the black area, and then back into the gray area, in and out of each area many times in one day. That is one of the reasons why I always stress to my spiritual students that it is better to be in conscious contact with God throughout your day (and thereby be as patient, loving and positive as you can be at any and all times), than to just hurry up and push through your day in order to get things done as quickly as possible, and thereby be able to kick back and relax as soon as possible.

Q: So how does a person protect himself and thereby avoid being vulnerable to the negative, crazy, even terrorist acts of others?

A: You can protect yourself by doing everything that you can to move yourself towards the white area, and then when getting there, make sure that you stay there. The least that a person would have to do in order to accomplish such positive karmic movement would be to develop the habit of being positive towards self and others, and then to also begin to work on his own individual Spiritual Development, both as major priorities in his life, now and forevermore.

To be more specific, you can begin to protect yourself by stopping all negative self-judgment and negative judgments of others. In other words, stop judging yourself (or others) for having a big belly, for losing money in the stock market, for not getting promoted, for not having a romantic partner, etc. and so forth. To protect yourself, you must love yourself even though you're not younger, better looking, smarter, richer and more talented than you are. Judgmental, or even self judgmental, people are not as safe as they could be in this world.

Protecting yourself also means truly loving your neighbor, forgiving the past, and wanting the best for others as much as for yourself. It does allow for holding other people accountable for their actions, but only if you don't forget that each and every single person on the planet is God in a body (each of us is an extension of Our Creator), and as such, each should be treated by you with respect, and more precisely, treated exactly as you are directed to do so by the Creator over time.

In essence, to protect yourself, you must act as directed by the Creator instead of by automatic negative habit in every circumstance and when making every decision. To protect yourself, you must take the time to recognize when kindness is cruelty and when cruelty is kindness, and you must ask God to take charge of you and to show you His Will and Truth in all areas of your life through Crystal Clear Receivership of His Voice.

Another, more specific way, that God can protect you from dying in a disaster, even if you are in the black area, would be by telling you what to do, what not to do, where to go, and where not to go through Crystal Clear Receivership of His Voice from within you. God's most effective Protection is His Direction. If you want to be safer than you are, make yourself more positive, ask God to take charge of you, and always ask Him for His Direction on all the moves that you make in life, before you make them.

All of this is not a suggestion to be paranoid, just smart. God cannot protect you in the sense of making sure that no one will ever make a free will decision that will affect your lifestyle negatively over time. But, He can certainly help you avoid the worst of what people in personal self will control project and do to you because He can help you deal with it all peacefully and from a truly Higher Perspective over time.

And, "double-checking with God first" will certainly help insure that you are never at the wrong place at the wrong time. Doing so will also continue to move you towards being in the white area karmically at all times. Double-checking with God before making decisions is the quickest and most assured way to eliminate your vulnerability to disaster now and forevermore, in the physical, and in all realms of existence over time. It is also the best course of action to take to insure that you survive on the way to that white karmic area in this modern world.

Q: How can we make the United States, itself, safer from acts of terrorism?

A: In order to protect the United States, we, as a nation, must move ourselves into the white area over time. People must be inspired to be more positive and fearless; to treat others more kindly, cooperatively and carefully; and to seek Divine Guidance from the Creator in all areas of life. For this Divine Guidance, I would suggest that individuals go directly to God within them, and not just rely on those who have set themselves up as religious authorities on the planet.

Religious authorities too often fall into the trap of caring more about their authority than about teaching others to go directly to God within them. If everyone went to God within him for answers and direction, everyone would be helping move the United States into the white area at all times. It would certainly be wise for all enlightened spiritual students to pray that all the leaders of the United States, and of all the nations of the world, go to God within them for His Direction at all times.

During the considerable time that it may take to move the United States into the white area, the people in the United States should work to avoid any kind of complacency or oversight. This means that we should spend as much time and money on protecting our vulnerable spots in this country, as we might spend on retaliating militarily against the terrorists and against those supporting them over time.

Q: Could it ever be God's Will for us to ignore "turn the other cheek" and rather retaliate militarily against our attackers?

A: It is never what you do, but why you do it, that determines the karma attached to any particular word or deed. For those who may likely be ordering and/or carrying out retaliatory attacks, the karma would be determined by each individual's perspective, attitude and motivation.

Are these attacks simply retaliation and revenge? Are they designed to actually protect lives in the long run? Did those ordering and carrying out the retaliatory attacks ask for God to guide them about whether to do so, and if so, how to do so? Was there great care taken to identify those who perpetrated the terrorist acts, so that the retaliation isn't as blind and vicious to its innocent victims as the original acts of terrorism were?

There is negative karma for individuals, and for a nation, that targets its victims simply by the color of their skin, their nationality, their homeland, their religion, their customs and/or by the social differences that are not understandable and/or acceptable to them. "Turn the other cheek" applies in the sense that it is smarter to pray that your enemies be changed in their motivations by God within them, than to just blindly hate and retaliate against them over time.

Without taking the above considerations into account, those people who may be ordering and carrying out the military retaliation against the terrorists would be perpetuating some of the very motivations that were motivating the terrorists in the first place. These motivations include: frustration, sense of persecution, sense of powerlessness, martyrism, urgency for change, self righteousness, intolerance, blame projection, resentment, retaliation, need to prove manhood, need to lash out and revenge. Praying for those who you may have to attack is a lot better karmically than trying to "damn their souls to hell" for what they did. As Jesus said, "let he who is without sin throw the first stone."

To further and more specifically answer the question of whether and when could it be God's Will for the United States (and for individuals) to retaliate and possibly kill the terrorists and their supporters, I must recount a story from my past with my Spiritual Teacher, Rev. Dr. Bernice Osman. About twenty years ago, we were watching TV together for relaxation in our bedroom. The news came on and there was a lead story about the penalty phase of a trial for a convicted serial killer.

This story inspired me to ask Bernice whether it was ever God's Will for the death penalty to be administered. She answered by telling me to do a Receivership paper about it. Anyone who knew Bernice would have expected such a response from her. So I did that paper.

In my Receivership paper, the Creator told me that it was His Will for this particular individual to receive the death penalty. God told me that the reason for this was not to punish him. God does not punish by killing people. The reason was to allow this individual to immediately pay off some of his grave negative karma by virtue of his actual physical death. Every incident is motivated, created, manifested by certain energy, which is then dissipated by the occurrence.

In essence, by the Grace of God, this serial killer would be allowed to pay off some of his karma from this lifetime by being the "victim" of capital punishment from the state. He wouldn't have to wait for his next lifetime to start his karmic payback. Also, by being put to death by the state, this individual would be prevented from creating any more negative karma for himself (or for others) while in prison in this lifetime.

You might wonder, "what kind of havoc could he have been prevented from doing in prison?" A person in prison for life could create more karma for himself by hurting or killing another inmate, or by influencing those inmates negatively with his craziness. He could also create more karma for other inmates by getting them to either kill him or to kill others by his choice of action or words over time.

To summarize, it is sometimes God's Will to literally have someone taken off the planet as a way of preventing him from creating more karma for himself and others; and as a way to allow him to rebalance some of his negative karma at the time as well. Each case is individual and the karmically correct direction to take can only be accurately determined through direct Receivership of God's Will at the time.

To translate this story to the focus of U.S. Retaliatory strikes against terrorists, I must say that these strikes could be designated by the Creator in order to stop those terrorists from creating more karma for themselves by their continued violent acts (as well as to protect potential future "gray area" victims). It could also be designated to help dissolve karma for these terrorists through their actual loss of life. For those reasons, there could be very little, if any, negative karma attached to these strikes, especially if those ordering them, and those carrying them out, can also get a handle on their own violent natures, and thereby let go of revenge and retaliation as their primary responses to this experience.

Every sincere person on the planet should pray that there be Divine Protection for all, Victorious Mastery for all, karmic freedom and forgiveness from the past for all, and that God's Will be done relative to any and all of the military actions that are decided upon by all those in power within all sides. Hold that as a focus, and work to move yourself and your country into the white area of karmic safety, as a major priority focus in your life, now and forevermore. Pray for the Planet!!!

Allowing too much complacency in airport security, and allowing too much complacency about Spiritual Development and creating Karmic Balance in your life, are both recipes to create continued vulnerability to disaster for nations, and for individuals. Take all that is occurring now as a wake up call. Stop creating more oversight karma. As Bernice once told all of her students, "whos e karma is greater, the person who left the diamond ring unattended on the table, or the person who took it?"

So, be smart and stay connected to the God within you who loves all life. Let His Presence within you remind you that we are all one, that we are all God, and that we are all here for Spiritual Mastery and Karmic Freedom in the physical. When your conscious connection to God within you cannot be shaken by any events of this Earth life, you are and shall remain eternal in the physical, and in all realms of existence over time.

Q: Another question that has been floating around the minds of so many people is whether Nostradamus actually predicted the World Trade Center attack in his writings, and therefore, whether this situation is the beginning of the end of the world as we know it?

A: As I mentioned above, God gave man real free will and thereby gave man the power to create disasters, and the power to dissolve them. How could Nostradamus have known over 400 hundred years ago whether all mankind (and therefore this earth planet) was going to be in the black, white or gray areas karmically in the year 2001?

The Creator cannot even predict what each individual is going to do from moment to moment with his day-to-day choices, let alone predict everything that will happen for the next 400 years. I cannot say whether or not any of my spiritual students are going to be applying themselves tomorrow; or whether they will be distracted by any number of lesser god influences that day..

God can tell you what will happen if people don't change their ways. I can tell you that if a young thirteen-year-old boy on the streets doesn't reign in his wiseacre mouth that he will most likely get slapped around by someone he alienates one day. I cannot tell you whether he will meet and listen to some caring adult at the YMCA one day, and thereby choose to allow himself to be helped to become a better citizen, and thusly avoid those abovementioned slaps later on in his life.

With all of the above said, how easy do you think it would have been for Nostradamus to accurately predict the outcome of all the variable decisions that could be made out of each's free will and personal self will control, by the billions and billions of people (incarnate and discarnate) who have lived on this planet over the last four hundred years, and whose every decision altered history, moment by moment? There are way too many variables at work within every facet of human life for anyone to accurately predict the future, especially not 400 years in the future.

Besides, predicting disaster 400 years in advance doesn't allow for the possibility that man could actually learn his spiritual lessons and avoid pushing the planet into the black area. Why would God predict (ostensibly through Nostradamus) that all of His Children would fail at their spiritual masteries, if God actually desired those masteries to be made? Would you, as a teacher or a parent, tell your students or children, that they have no chance to learn and achieve?

And, the United States is not in the black area karmically, anyway. It is in the gray area. Even the attack on the World Trade Center could have been much worse. The Twin Towers could have fallen over to the side like a mighty oak tree, causing triple the death and destruction that it actually manifested (and dissipated).

Also, more planes were supposed to be hijacked on that Tuesday. It wasn't as if our intelligence protected us from it all. Some bad karma, and some good karma, were both at work at the World Trade Center, and at the Pentagon, on that eventful day. No one can predict the future from now on. We can only try to Co-Create the best possible future with God, individually in our own lives, and collectively for our nation and our world.
